

Giants Win On Homers; Series Knotted At 2-2

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Hiller, a chunky little fellow with only three home runs all season, hit the first grand slammer of his brief career in the seventh inning Monday and squared the World Series with a crushing 7-3 San Francisco victory over the favored New York Yankees.

Hiller's blow off relief pitcher Marshall Bridges came with the score tied at 2-2 after a Yank sixth-inning rally repaired the damage of Tom Haller's two-run homer off Whitey Ford in the second.

All even at two games each, the Giants' victory assured San Francisco fans of a sixth game Thursday and possibly a seventh game Friday. After Tuesday's fourth game in this best-of-7 tournament, the clubs will take a day off Wednesday for travel.

President Of Cuba Terms U.S. Blockade 'Act Of War'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—At a tumultuous General Assembly session Monday President Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado of Cuba demanded that the United Nations condemn as an act of war any U.S. blockade of his country.

Outside the hall chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson served notice the United States would maintain its economic pressure against the Fidel Castro regime as the least

Squabbles On Bills Slow Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed Monday a $3.9-billion foreign aid appropriation bill but got deeper into a fight with the House over a farm money bill. This struggle threatened hopes for adjournment this week.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he is reconciled to keeping Congress in session indefinitely as Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., proclaimed a no-surrender stand in the farm bill battle.

Mansfield told newsmen there still is a chance of breaking through to a final adjournment this week "but I would not wager on it."

Passage of the foreign aid bill disposed of one major obstacle but several others remain in addition to the farm funds measure. Chief among these are a $500-million catch-all supplemental appropriation bill and a public works authorization measure.

Many members grew restive under what one of them called cruel and unusual punishment in keeping Congress in session. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican floor leader, summed it up as an exasperating and frustrating situation.

Noting that the congressional elections are only four weeks off, Kuchel said, "The only thing to do is what many Senators already have been forced to do and that is play a little hockey."

The House marked time. Its Rules Committee will decide Tuesday whether to send a multi-billion-dollar bill authorizing rivers, harbors and flood control work to a Senate-House conference or let it die. The House authorized a $2.25-billion program and the Senate boosted the total to $4 billion.

Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, said Democratic leaders are deliberately delaying adjournment to keep Republicans from going home to campaign.

although seven had been hit by American Leagues players, six of them by Yankees.

The Giants' unsung combination of Hiller and Haller upstaged the Yanks' famed M&M boys when Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris went hitless.

A crowd of 66,607 watched Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants out-duel Ralph Houk of the Yankees in a series of sharp strategic moves before Hiller hit his grand slammer.

It got another thrill in the last of the ninth when successive two-out singles by Tony Kubek, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh scored a run and brought up Mantle with two on. However, Billy O'Dell, fourth Giant pitcher, made Mickey hit into a force play ending the game.

Larsen Wins
To make this day even more memorable was the fact that Don Larsen was the winning pitcher. It was just exactly six years to the day that Larsen pitched his famous perfect World Series game for the Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers. As it turned out the first man he faced was pinch hitter Yogi Berra, the man who caught him on that historic afternoon in 1956.

Berra had batted for Ford in the sixth when Houk desperately tried to break the game wide open, after tying the score. Although Berra walked, loading the bases, Larsen made Kubek ground out to first base.

Jim Coates took over in the seventh and the wheels began to turn after he walked Jim Davenport. Haller, a strapping catcher, struck out before Dark made his first move.

Although Jose Pagan, his short-stop was hitting .500 and led all Series players, Dark yanked him for a pinch hitter in a daring move. He sent up Matty Alou, a left-handed batter, to face the right-handed Coates. Matty, kid brother of Felipe, went to a 2-2 count before he lined a double past third base down the left field line.

Calls In Bridges
When Dark sent up Ed Bailey, another lefty batter, to hit for Larsen, Houk called to the bullpen for Bridges, a husky lefty. Dark, who still had a move to make while Houk had to go with his pitcher until he faced at least one man, then sent up Bob Nieman, a right-handed batter, to face Bridges.

Houk's book called for an intentional walk to the veteran Nieman that loaded the bases with one out. Dark called on Ernie Bowman to run for the slow-footed Nieman. That move was unnecessary.

Harvey Kuenn had a chance to break it open but he popped up to Cleto Boyer after fouling off five pitches and there were two out.

Hiller, a steady fielder with no reputation for power, took a called strike and then looked at a ball from the fast-balling Bridges.

The former St. Thomas College athlete swung at the next pitch—a high fast ball—and the ball sailed into the lower stands in right over the head of Maris who could do no more than look and talk to himself.

Heckling Galore
Loud applause also punctuated the speech. It was led mainly by a group of Soviet U.N. employees who left their desks to attend.

Anti-Castro hecklers went into action at least five times. At the conclusion of the speech a group of pro-Castro demonstrators got in their licks by unfolding a banner reading "Stop Kennedy. Hands Off Cuba." The guards were kept busy hustling out at least 20 demonstrators.

Stevenson took the assembly rostrum briefly to explain that he would violate U.N. tradition if he replied directly to a speech by a chief of state. He said he would make a statement at a news conference.

At the meeting with correspondents Stevenson described the charges by Dorticos as "neither original nor true."

He reiterated the United States would not attack Cuba, but added, "Let it be equally clear that the United States will not tolerate aggression against any part of this hemisphere."

Accusation Absurd
He said it was absurd to describe U.S. economic action against Cuba as either aggressive or warlike.

"It is the most normal, and indeed the least violent, way in which we can express our strong disapproval of the threats and sword rattling emanating from Cuba," he declared.

Then in words directed at the Soviet Union as well as Cuba, Stevenson added:

"Let no one mistake the impact of this Soviet intervention in Cuba on the hope we all share for world peace. If the Soviet Union persists in the course it has chosen, if it continues to try to prevent the peaceful social resolution of the Americas, it will increasingly excite the deep indignation of the people of my country and of other American states."

"The result will be to make the resolution of issues far more difficult in every other part of the world. A consequence of this gratuitous Soviet initiative is to postpone even further the hope for world stabilization. I cannot state this point with sufficient gravity."

Others Released
At the same time, the Army said it planned to release another 4,000 Mississippi National Guardsmen Tuesday night. The Pentagon released about 3,500 Mississippi Guardsmen last Friday and let 4,600 others return home—but still in federal service and on call. These 4,600 now will be released entirely from duty.

The action leaves about 3,000 Guardsmen in the Oxford area, the Army said. About 7,000 regular troops were still on duty around the university.

As Meredith strolled into his first class without student jeering, the Army also called off its checkpoint campus guards. This opened up free access to the university, which saw 114 years of segregation crumble with Meredith's enmeshment Oct. 1.

Sharp Contrast
The quiet Ole Miss scene Monday was in sharp contrast to last week's rioting that left two dead and scores injured.

Catechisms and boos trailed Meredith through the first week of classes. Sunday night, some 130 persons waited for him to leave the university cafeteria and then greeted him with boos.

But two unidentified white students shook Meredith's hand as he walked toward his apartment in Baxter Hall near the cafeteria.

In keeping with the Army cut-back, the marshals who act as Meredith's bodyguard have lowered their number to 20.

Budget $11,000
Total budget of the agency is $11,000. Difference between Chest allocation and that figure comes from full pay, part pay, D.P.A., American Cancer Society and Blue Cross.

Anyone can refer a case and one visit will be made immediately. After that, and as is the case with most referrals, the family physician must direct the visit.

The greatest pleasure derived by the patient is the traditional hospital-type grooming given by the nurse—the bath, the hair combing, etc.

But in the past year the nurse has dealt with 544 cardiac cases, 575 cancer cases, 159 stroke cases, 13 diabetics, 41 arthritic, and 47 other types. Together these types involved well over 800 patients.

Professional Care
Need for a visit may cause visits three times a week or twice a week.

No, the Visiting Nurses does not provide dish washing, housecleaning or other normal household work. The nurse is a professional, registered nurse operating under a family physician.

It is true, however, the association does get requests for this type of service but the two hands of the nurse are now full with hospital care ranging from hypodermics to dressing changes and baths.

Community Chest Kickoff Starts Drive For $111,516

By Bobby Westbrook
CHALLENGING the workers in the 20th Community Chest campaign and the first United Fund Appeal of the Chest and Red Cross to approach the task of raising $111,516 as "a big and glorious opportunity" to serve the community, Arlington Williams spoke at the kickoff meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night.

"This is not a dreary process of begging for money," he said, "it is an opportunity to provide a community atmosphere, safeguarding the health and happiness of our children, our families and the community's health, both physical and mental."

"If we fail it is not because we have set our sights too high, or are asking for too much money, but because we have not measured up to the job."

"The tragedy of failure will not be that we have failed to meet our goal but that we will be taking away the opportunity of our agencies to serve."

Positive Values
Williams, pointing to the positive values of the young people of the community where two per cent are delinquent but 98 per cent are behaving satisfactorily and many brilliantly, attributed this to the work of the agencies in serving young people.

"This has been called an Age of Anxiety because with encroaching secularism life becomes meaningless unless we put service to others above property or status," he said.

Workers need to prepare themselves both spiritually and factually, Williams said. The factually preparation at the kick-off dessert meeting came with two minute reports from each of the 13 participating agencies:

For the Boy Scouts, William Vincent told a story of integrity and responsibility inspired by being a member of the Boy Scouts.

Child Health, Joseph Lisicky pointed out, provides dental and medical care for "border-line" cases where families providing for their families can turn for help for those expenses which their budget cannot cover.

The services of the Children's Aid Society, Charles Jones explained, provide foster care for dependent children; a regional adoption service; protective counseling as a preventive service for families as well as a counseling service for unwed mothers and the new opportunities for service to be opened through the contemplated Family Service.

The General Hospital provides 24-hour health services for the community, Harry Smith said, with the Community Chest taking up the slack in free care. He also hailed the addition of the Red Cross to the appeal, praising the services of their Gray Ladies and Blood Bank program.

Stewardship Report: Visiting Nurses In Chest Aid Budget

ANYONE who has experienced service from the Visiting Nurses Association, whether convalescent after hospital treatment, or just a home patient will testify with considerable fervor that the $6,750 allocation from this year's Community Chest campaign is well spent.

It's another case of "you'll never know until you need it", and to be sure everyone knows the Visiting Nurses agency has started dropping reminder notes to hospital discharges their service is available.

Just a few vital statistics on what services this agency has rendered in one year:

The visiting nurses of the agency served 716 full pay patients, 212 part pay patients and 454 free patients. This involved 155 new families and 55 old families for 2,316 visits in a year covering 13,400 miles, all with one nurse.

Budget $11,000
Total budget of the agency is $11,000. Difference between Chest allocation and that figure comes from full pay, part pay, D.P.A., American Cancer Society and Blue Cross.

Other Cases Also To Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on the constitutionality of Bible-reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

This question of intense national interest was left unanswered by the varied interpretations of the court's historic June 25 decision that a prayer drawn by state officials for use in New York State's public schools violated the Constitution.

Specifically, the court will now deal with (1) a Pennsylvania law requiring Bible-reading in the public schools and (2) a Baltimore School Board regulation that classes open each day with a Bible-reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Both were challenged as a breach of the wall between church and state. A special federal court in Philadelphia found the Pennsylvania law unconstitutional. The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld the Baltimore regulation.

Refuse Other Cases
The high tribunal refused to review these two other decisions touching on church-state relations:

—That Oregon may not provide free school books to church schools, even though the court ruled 32 years ago that Louisiana could provide nonreligious books to parochial school students.

—That a $40,000 hospital built with public funds may be leased to a religious organization, St. Walburg Monastery of the Benedictine Sisters of Covington, Ky.

The refusal to review means the lower courts' decisions stand.

In this first decision day of its new term, the court acted on more than 400 appeals, most of them of purely local interest. It accepted only a couple of dozen on top of the 80 the court already has agreed to hear argued this term.

Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, who was sworn in a week ago, took part in none of Monday's rulings.

Racial Segregation
Aside from agreeing to delve deeper into the momentous question of religion in the public schools, other big issues which the court dealt with involved racial segregation and labor relations.

And the justices refused to consider an effort to block the first large-scale try out of pay television—an experiment which began in July on a three-year trial basis in the Hartford, Conn., area.

Among appeals in the racial field, the tribunal turned down one by Mississippi contesting court orders which forced the University of Mississippi to admit James H. Meredith, 29, a Negro.

Justice Hugo L. Black predicted on Sept. 10—before the riots set off by entry of Meredith into the university—that "there is very little likelihood" that the Supreme Court would consider Mississippi's appeal.

Black made his comment in setting aside a stay order by U.S. Circuit Court Judge Ben F. Cameron which for a time blocked Meredith's entry into the previously all-white university. Black then called for Meredith's immediate admission and enjoined the university and others from taking any steps to bar him.

Two Cases Accepted
The court did accept two important cases in the racial field and in effect let stand rulings barring segregation at bus and railroad stations.

One appeal accepted for argument challenges a public school transfer plan adopted by Knoxville and Davidson County, Tenn., in carrying out racial integration. The U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati has approved it but the case is being appealed by a group of Negro students who claim it perpetuates segregation.

The plan entitled a pupil, either Negro or white, to transfer out of a school previously used by the other race and having a membership predominantly of the other race.

Other Issues
The other racial question the court agreed to hear is an appeal by Marion D. Green, a Negro, who complained that because of his race he was refused a job as pilot with Continental Air Lines Inc., in Denver, Colo.

Justice Byron R. White, as well as Goldberg, took no part in the line ruling.

The court refused to review a decision prohibiting Louisiana officials from requiring the posting of signs in bus and railroad stations indicating facilities are for use by persons of any particular race or color.

Rejected also was an appeal by Georgia attacking an Interstate Commerce Commission order banning interstate bus operations and use of bus terminals where there is racial discrimination.

Captives' Release Awaited

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban prisoner negotiator James B. Donovan and Prime Minister Fidel Castro are set to meet Tuesday for final talks on the release of 1,113 captives taken in the abortive Cuban invasion, responsible sources said Monday night.

The informants predicted the long-awaited announcement of their release would be made soon after the meeting and that all the prisoners would be flown to Miami, Fla., in a few days.

It had been reported earlier that Donovan and Castro were to have met Monday and that only the wording of the communiqué stood in the way of the prisoners' freedom.

Castro Away
However, Castro was out of Havana on an undisclosed mission and Donovan did not return until the afternoon from a mystery-shrouded trip to Miami.

Responsible sources said Donovan had arranged with Pan American World Airways for air transportation to take all the prisoners from Havana to Miami before the weekend.

Relatives and friends of the prisoners in Havana were certain agreement on the prisoners' release had already been reached. They have been showering Donovan with gifts and praise.

For some, however, joy and relief were tempered by the looming separation of loved ones, who, although captive, were close and sometimes seen.

"After waiting so long," said one captive's mother, "I will probably not be able to see my son before he leaves, and then who knows how long it will be until we see each other again."

Terms Not Disclosed
Settlement terms have not been disclosed.

Castro's government had asked $62 million for all the prisoners taken in the Bay of Pigs invasion in April, 1961. About 60 have already been freed.

Donovan, negotiator for the families' committee seeking the prisoners' release, said when he left for Havana last month that he would offer Castro medicine and food in lieu for a cash ransom.

Informants said Donovan, who negotiated the swap of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel last year, has refused to accept a fee for his services on behalf of the Cuban prisoners.

Regional Man Serving U.S. In Indonesia Assignment

By Peggy Bancroft
Daily Record Correspondent
SOUTH STERLING — "A feeling of friendly concern, an interest in people, and a sense of humor" are of great importance in the work being done by Andrew Dressler, Jr., who is home in "The States" for the first time in two years, and who will return shortly to his post in Indonesia where he is apart of USAID (United States Agency for International Development.)

Dressler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dressler, Sr., of South Sterling, is one of eleven officers sent to Djakarta, Indonesia, in August, 1960, by the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

The Americans are under a contract with the United States International Cooperation Administration to help Indonesia develop a National Maritime Academy which will turn out 150 well-trained graduates a year by 1965.

The Dresslers - Commander Mrs. Dressler and their sons, 19-year-old Drew and 11-year-old David, left Djakarta on August 10 and "took the long way round," coming to the USA by way of Bangkok, New Delhi, Agra, Beirut, Jerusalem, Cairo, Athens, Rome, Naples and London.

After a stay in South Sterling (Montgomery County), the Dress-lers will leave for Walla Walla, Washington, where Drew has already begun college. He has completed his freshman year at the University of Australia.

The family will go down the West coast to Southern California, and then back to Djakarta by a route as yet unplanned.

While here, Mr. Dressler, at a gathering of some 40 relatives and friends at Spruce Mountain House, home of his sister, Mrs. Reece Price, showed slides of the family's adventures and visits to places of interest all over the world. His knowledge of the ways of the people of Indonesia made the pictures especially interesting.

Just before returning to the U.S., Mrs. Dressler joined a twelve-day trip to Bali with sixty women from many nations, all members of the Women's International Club.

She explained, "I really didn't mind the inconveniences of the trip, probably because we had lived here long enough to be prepared for any emergency; but there were a few who were quite unhappy and who flew home."

Mrs. Dressler is chairman of the American Women's Association for Social Welfare in Indonesia.

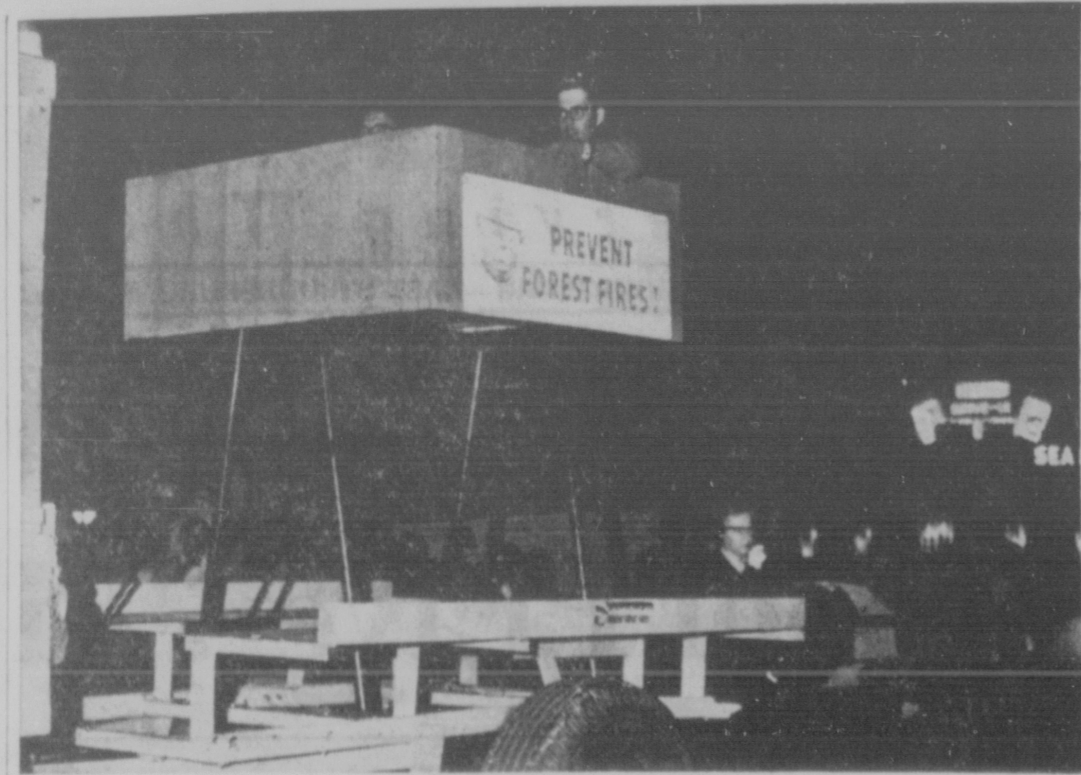

Cmdr. Dressler, who grew up with a desire to follow in the footsteps of his father, who had been a marine engineer, took a two-year course in the Pennsylvania Nautical School Ship outside of the Philadelphia Naval Yards. He learned the steam-powered marine engine there, and then served six months with a shipbuilder to obtain diesel license.

He served for some time on merchant ships, and traveled to South America and China. When World War II began, his training qualified him for an ensign's commission. He served in the South Pacific throughout the war, and was discharged a full lieutenant.

Diesel Engineering
He began teaching diesel engineering at Long Beach City College, California, where he remained until 1960 when he was chosen for the work in Indonesia. Now 42 years old, he holds the rank of commander in the Naval Reserve.

By 1965, the Academy where Cmdr. Dressler is a key man is expected to be functioning smoothly, with an all-Indonesian staff. This will permit withdrawal of the entire advisory group from the United States.

However, according to his word this week, Cmdr. Dressler plans to stay in foreign service.

State Seeks College Tax

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Revenue Department said Monday it plans to continue its fight for a court-rejected regulation exempting college bookstores from collecting the 4 per cent sales tax on textbooks.

Richard H. Wagner, counsel for the Sales and Use Tax Bureau, said he would ask Commonwealth Court to reopen the case later this week and permit additional argument.

The court struck down the regulation on Oct. 1 at the request of Richard Foster, owner of the Rittenhouse Bookstore of Philadelphia.

The Sales Tax Bureau exceeded its administrative functions in issuing the regulation, the court said, adding such exemptions are matters for the state legislature.

Scott Blasts Dilworth In Local Speech

MARSHALLS CREEK — U. S. Senator Hugh Scott, senior statesman from Washington, D. C., climaxed an evening of patriotic music and campaign talks when 500 Monroe Countians and guests from surrounding counties gathered at Jack and Fran Shinn's Vacation Valley resort for a country buffet supper and dance sponsored by the Middle Smithfield Republican Club.

Speaking on behalf of William Scranton, Republican candidate for the governorship of Pennsylvania, Senator Hugh Scott stated: "Coming from Philadelphia, I know at first hand how corrupt and utterly contemptuous of ordinary people are the big city machines. They thrive on the sale of legislation and no one knows this better than Dick Dilworth, who has made himself their apologist and front man."

"With Dilworth in Harrisburg, the big city machines will run the Commonwealth. They will take you out of house and home and they will continue the ineptness of eight years of Democrat misrule."

"Scranton will give this Commonwealth a fresh start and a new climate to bring in industry and jobs."

"Republican Jimmie Van Zandt will bring to the Senate another vote against waste and senseless, wild spending. You can help to save some of your tax money with one more Republican Senator. To return a Democrat is to say you want to be taxed more and more and that you want the Federal Government to take away more and more of the functions of local and State Governments."

"For your own good — even for President Kennedy's own good, we need a Republican Congress," Scott concluded.

Fran Shinn acted as master of ceremonies, and Club Chairman, R. W. Peter Ryckman introduced State Senator William Z. Scott, Republican candidate for re-election to the Pennsylvania Senate, "Woody" Horn, Republican congressional candidate for the 15th Pocono Mountains Industries, who gave an interesting talk on the potential of the Poconos area.

Sen. Crowe predicted a bright future for this section, saying that recent developments assured that it will one day soon be the greatest recreation area in the eastern United States.

On the industrial picture, the speaker referred to the favorable labor climate for industrial growth, and ask the cooperation of every business, agency and individual in aiding the limitless potential of the Poconos for both industry and recreation.

'People's Capitalism'

As of early 1962, some 17,010,000 men, women and children owned shares of this country's corporations—a dramatic increase from the 12,500,000 of 1959.

That is one of the facts reported in the New York Stock Exchange's latest census of the share-owning population. Along with it, the census provides some significant information about the characteristics of all the millions of new shareowners. For instance:

A clear majority of them — about 55 percent—are women, as compared with 51 percent of 1962 shareowners as a whole. So the distaff side seems to be gaining.

The median age of the new shareowner during the 1959-62 period was 39, as against a median of 48 for the entire shareowning population. So youth is apparently becoming a more dominant factor in the stockholder picture.

The median annual household income of new shareowners was $8,400 as against $8,600 for all shareowners. This provides more proof of the not-too-well-known fact that, nowadays, stock ownership is for the many in the moderate income groups, not just the wealthy. It's also interesting that 12.4 percent of new shareowners were in the two lowest wage brackets — under $3,000 a year, and $3,000 to $5,000.

What is the moral we can deduce from such facts and figures as these? Answer: What is called "people's capitalism" — in which vast numbers of typical individuals are part-owners of our corporate enterprises—has become the American way of life.

Answer To Shorter Work Week

Thirteen Pennsylvania communities are about to embark in a limited way on a program which might supply an effective answer to growing pressure for a shorter work week. They are among the first in the country to set up job-retraining classes under terms of the Clark-Holland Federal Manpower and Development Act.

Specific courses have been approved to equip unemployed workers for new trades. Easton, which is the closest of the cities, will start a course of machine tool operation for some 70 trainees. As the program develops, Bethlehem hopes to present a training course for auto service specialists under the Clark-Holland Act. Communities will attempt to pattern the courses to turn out qualified workers in those skills where opportunities exist.

At a time when technological unemployment is growing and labor unions are being urged to adopt stronger positions for a shorter work week, the retraining program will be closely watched. Labor Secretary Goldberg is against a shorter work week because, like many others, he fears that those long-range effects could be disastrous to labor and the entire economy. Once labor costs rise, prices of goods rise. Competition from overseas undercuts many higher priced goods, and U. S. companies are forced to cut back. A shorter work week could mean more rather than less employment.

July employment figures reflected a slight improvement in the labor picture but hardly enough to check the growing pressure upon the unions. Goldberg has held out so far for other measures, the job retraining program among them, and including area redevelopment, investment incentives and tax reductions.

These measures may not be as appealing as the cry for a shorter work week, and they may take a little longer for the effects to be felt. But there can be no doubt that they offer a sounder and more realistic approach toward a solution of the jobless problem.

The Aftermath

I saw an item in which a columnist condemns those who review situations from hindsight. Were his judgement correct no history could be written, no errors could be corrected.

The function of the press is not to assume that what has been done — about anything — is necessarily correct because it has been done. Rather we need to review the consequences. In the United States, it is always necessary to be sure that officials, from the President down to a process server, do not use power to violate the law.

Therefore such a statement as the following is, in my opinion, nonsense:

"Monday morning quarterback, who have 20-20 vision after the game is over, come a dime a dozen."

What happened in Oxford, Mississippi, may be viewed from many standpoints:

1. To the older, pro-segregationist Southerners, it is an outrage that the Federal Government should intervene in a strictly local matter and the regulations of a university are local. Harvard does not admit every student who wishes to enter. There are many disqualifications, some unjust.

2. The progressive Southerners are chagrined that the South should again be pilloried by a pre-determined arrangement to place one student in a segregationist university. Some feel that gradualism was getting good results in the South and that interracial relations can be improved without the use of force.

3. Negro leaders have generally been silent with regard to Mississippi but it cannot be denied that they have won a great political victory. The real victory lies in the foreboding that Federal troops having been used in Oxford, Mississippi, to put one student into a university, such Federal troops, border control guards and improvised Marshals can be used to prevent Southern state officials from preventing Negroes from voting in the 1962 and 1964 elections.

4. The Solid South no longer exists in the sense that white folks, who are traditional Democrats, will not vote according to Civil War traditions in the next election. There will be a Republican ticket in most Southern states. Of course, Democratic Senators and Representatives will want to be re-elected but they will have to do it on their own. Some of them will be expressly anti-Administration.

5. The use of Marshals in this operation was clearly a mistake. The public is not accustomed to them. A United States Marshal, as the citizen generally knows him, is a fat, middle-aged politician who hangs around a Federal Court House, who issues summonses, seizes private property of those in default, and smokes a smelly cigar.

Where did these young men come from? They did not look good with their masks and tear gas. Are they to be recruited into a national police force? That is an offensive concept — too much like Storm Troopers. If the Federal Government has to send troops anywhere, send soldiers and marines. They know their business and Americans generally respect them.

6. Students usually riot where there is anything to riot about. Wise college administrators usually do not make much of a fuss about it because they know, from experience, that the boys will settle down to work and, in due course, it all ends in teenage fun. Anyone who has been to a college knows this to be true, except perhaps in the larger colleges which no longer have room for a shoot. It is not necessary to shoot at American boys and girls, even with tear gas, because they throw a Coca-Cola bottle at a cop. The cop should dodge the bottle and spank the student.

7. It is impossible to impose virtue by force. Prohibition should have taught us that. After Prohibition was abolished, the saloon was not restored; instead, the bar was moved to a thing called a Cafe where not only men but women can sit and guzzle.

Segregation is a moral and sociological question with historic overtones. Emotions on either or any side of this question are tense and grow increasingly so as more Negroes take their place in the world. The basic impediment to a solution is intermarriage and no one has ever solved that by vote, by change of name, by lopping off part of a nose, or by any other means.

We need not go to war, within the United States, to attempt to solve this problem. Gradualism is a better cure.

—And It's Getting Worse!

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Regardless of what Pennsylvania Democrats may or may not have in the campaign this year, they unquestionably have virtually all of the "titillating factors" on their side!

The point has been underscored repeatedly by campaigning donkey riders — and transmitted subconsciously to listeners and voters alike.

These titillating factors are built around "brag points" and only accrue to those who happen to be in power at the moment; in this case of course Pennsylvania Democrats.

This facet of campaigning is perhaps best illustrated by an actual case.

The other day Governor Lawrence (although not running for office is busy on the campaign trail in a "supporting effort") spoke at the Indiana County Democratic Dinner.

His theme, naturally, ran along the vein of the necessity of "continuing" the "progressive leadership and good government service to the people" — via insuring the election of Democratic candidates, most notably of course, gubernatorial candidate Richardson Dilworth.

But — in driving home this theme he referred exclusively to chores accomplished during his administration and the four preceding years of the Democratic Leader Administration.

Here's the way he really pinpointed the "titillating factors" insofar as Indiana County alone was concerned:

"Since Governor Leader entered office (1955), State Government has contributed just short of $29 million — $28,845,433 to be exact — toward existing roads and the maintenance of highways in this county."

Another excerpt:

"We have made significant strides forward in the expansion of facilities at Indiana State College. Three new dormitories are now under construction, and the General State Authority awarded the contract for construction of a fourth only last week."

Other items of local interest were also alluded to — but the roads and the State College adequately serve to illustrate the point at which we are driving.

These are indeed "titillating" items; they unquestionably tickle the fancy of listeners, or more specifically those people who live in Indiana County.

Multiply this by the other counties throughout the state — plus of course the statewide "accomplishments" — and the array of "we did this stuff" becomes quite formidable indeed, in a campaign year.

Thus the picture: Pennsylvania Democrats at the moment at least, have the things to which to point; "accomplishments"; "doing things for the people of the great State of Pennsylvania."

It's good campaign copy — unquestionably; but the fact remains that regardless of who or which happens to be in office those (perhaps not all of these basic items are going to be done anyway!

Highways for example: With the untold millions of dollars that tax returns are now "forcing" upon administration bloods on Capitol Hill, something has to crack, something has to give, something has to be built, the money has to be spent! Highways are going to be fixed and new ones built — regardless of who is in the throne room.

Some may be able to do the jobs more efficiently, with better planning, etc. — but these are not the factors mentioned in campaign sound-bites, as we've just noted. It's the physical accomplishment itself.

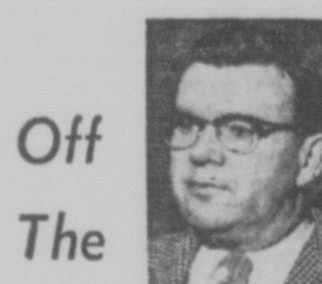

For the sake of balloon-deflated Democrats at this point, let it be noted that they are alone guilty of this "titillating factor" practice. Republicans when they were firing the muskets on Capitol Hill — now some eight long years ago — were just as aggressive on this score in their campaign lies; perhaps more so! (As the "guys" of course, GOP accomplishments at the moment are nil!)

It's part of any standard campaign package — but it fools a lot of people!

About Town

After reading 36 parking recommendations suggested by the Danbury Chamber of Commerce, this column is reminded of: "Parturient montes, nascetur ridiculus."

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

Mrs. Thomas Meekes, operator of the Long Pond weather observation station for 17 years, has reported to this corner that a large amount of tin foil has been found on the ground in that area.

She also notes that an object — a balloon — was sighted around the same time the tin foil was reported in many parts of the area.

Mrs. Meekes wasn't the only one to see the balloon which has been verified as a weather aid. Also "zeroing in" on the silver-colored (white butterfly) were her husband, Tom, Sr., Burt Kelper of Long Pond, and Charles Schultz of Fern Ridge.

The foursome tracked down the object with a pair of high-powered field glasses.

Although no official comment has come from Army or Air Force officials, maybe the balloon was the flying object which dropped the silvery tin foil in practically every section of Monroe County.

John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County coroner will attend the Pennsylvania State Coroners' Convention in Pittsburgh.

The parley will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Harold Jacobson and Al Schoch, two old Strouds of baseball yore, were two guys happy to see Jack Sanford's great pitching effort for the San Francisco Giants against the Yanks in the World Series.

Sanford's exhibition was held in esteem by Schoch and Jake because of Jake's long haul in the minors before finally cracking the majors. And, of course, their sentiments were hastened because Harold and Al are former pitchers, too.

Flossie and Joe Steele, boosters of East Stroudsburg High football, can be well proud of their boy Jimmy who is a star back for the Cavaliers.

Jimmy, as good a back around the Lehigh Valley, is the bread and butter carrier for the charges of Jack Kist.

The other night against Lehigh, Steele gained more than 150 yards on the ground to pace all backs at Memorial Stadium gridiron this past Saturday night.

Try and Stop Me

The obituary columns recently cited the passing of a lawyer who was famous for winning acquittals for ladies who had bumped off their better halves. The story goes that the red-headed star of a Broadway musical once phoned him to say, "I'll need your services. I'm planning to shoot my no-good husband sometime this week."

"You'll have to put it off till next month," the lawyer advised her. "I'm so busy right now I can't handle another case."

The Allen-Scott Report

Soviet Arms Buildup In Cuba Detailed

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, October 9: Russia is stepping up its arms shipments to Communist Cuba.

A record 213 ships unloaded their cargoes at Cuban ports the week of September 23 through the 29th.

This arms-bearing traffic brought the largest number of vessels to Cuba during a seven-day period since the Russians launched their crash program in mid-July to establish a military bastion there.

More than half of these merchants of death were Soviet bloc ships carrying additional missiles, MIG-21 jet interceptors, counter-electronic equipment, landing craft, and PT boats armed with missiles with ranges up to 80 miles.

This is the alarming report Representative James Fulton, R-Pa., turned over to House congressional leaders after a two-day on-the-spot inspection-briefing tour of the Navy's strategic base at Guantanamo on the southeastern coast of Cuba.

Representative Fulton, a member of the House Space Committee, also reported his findings to Representative A. Paul Kitchin's Special House Investigating Subcommittee, which is probing arms shipments to Cuba.

Fulton told the bipartisan group of legislators, and this column, that the ship totals were given by Naval Intelligence officers during the Guantanamo briefing arranged for his congressional party which included four other senators and representatives.

The intelligence experts estimated that two-thirds of the 213 ships carried either arms or military personnel from Russia. The remaining one-third unloaded such supplies as cotton, rice, oil and jet fuel.

Fulton also revealed that he was able to get a first-hand look at a number of the Soviet bloc cargo ships. Accompanied by a fighter escort, the Navy flew him over the ships as they made their way toward Cuban ports near Guantanamo.

Strange Reporting — This foreboding report of new Soviet arms shipments was in direct contrast to Undersecretary George W. Ball's soothing State Department report to the Kitchin committee on October 3.

Deliberately underestimating the Cuban threat, Ball reported: "In the last few weeks we have read much in the newspapers of the military buildup of Cuba by the Soviet Union. Quite clearly it does not constitute a threat to the U. S."

"Since July, when the volume of Soviet military shipments to Cuba suddenly vaulted upward, 85 shipsloads arrived in Cuban ports."

Undersecretary Ball's figure of 85 shipsloads of arms is at variance with a Navy report sent the State Department the day before he testified. This Naval Intelligence estimate, dated October 2, fully supported Representative Fulton's figures as obtained in his September 29-30 briefing.

Chairman Kitchin, vigorously questioning much of Ball's testimony, plans to recall the Undersecretary this week to quiz him on the naval shipping data and why this wasn't made available to his committee.

Getting The Facts — Already, Representative Kitchin has requested the Defense Department to furnish detailed information on the Soviet arms buildup to determine the accuracy of a number of other statements made by Ball.

For example, the North Carolina legislator wants the full story on the four "cruise-type" SS-N-1 missiles which the State Department now admits are in Cuba.

When he appeared before the Committee, Ball flatly contended that these missiles have a range of only 20 to 35 miles. Kitchin challenged this, stating he had information that the missiles can travel more than 130 nautical miles when guided by ships or planes.

Ball, strongly contending he had no knowledge of this, agreed to check further with the Department's intelligence aides to determine the exact range. He also said he would investigate reports that Soviet submarines were escorting ships to Cuba, and report to the committee on the exact number of Russian IGs in Cuba. Ball claimed there were 60 "older type MIG jet aircraft"; Kitchin's information showed "more than 200, including 52 MIG-21s, the newest interceptor."

Cuban Flash — Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., has quietly blocked a State Department bid to switch the congressional probe of Soviet arms shipments to Cuba from Representative Kitchin's committee to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He personally requested the House Administration Committee to provide Kitchin sufficient funds to keep his investigation going while Congress is in recess.

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) has joined a bipartisan group of senators urging President Kennedy to establish and support with arms and money a Cuban government-in-exile. Senator Humphrey told the President that such a move by the Administration would eventually lead to Castro's overthrow.

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., special assistant to the President, is leading the fight against such action. West German military experts identify the "ballistic missile" Soviet submarines operating in the Caribbean as being armed with basically the same medium-range missile developed by the Nazis in the last world war — but never used. The missiles have ranges upwards of 40 miles and are for use against stationary targets. The Soviets took over the Nazi U-boat missile project after the war and greatly improved it.

CHILDREN playing with matches started a fire in an upstairs apartment at the home of Mrs. Agnes S. Dyer, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, about 6:20 p.m. Sunday.

The blaze started in a mattress in a bedroom of the apartment and furniture, bedding and walls in the room were scorched badly by flames. Other rooms on the second floor were damaged heavily by smoke.

Mrs. Dyer, an artist, operated the Ridge Gallery, in her own portion of the two-story frame dwelling. The family occupying the apartment was not identified.

Stroud Township and Marshalls Creek Volunteer Fire Depts. fought the fire for an hour and a half before it was extinguished.

Gov. Praises State Highways

PALMERTON, Pa. (AP)—Gov. Lawrence said Monday Pennsylvania's present record of highway construction is unparalleled in the state's history.

"Wherever we turn, throughout Pennsylvania, there is evidence that we have reversed the downward trend of many years, that we are moving forward with heartening speed toward a period of great, new economic prosperity," said the governor.

He spoke at the opening of a new section of State Route 29 between Palmerton and Lehigh Gap.

from Lions International, presented to him by Lions District Governor Ken Hall.

He was also awarded a plaque by the Tobyhanna Lions, with Zone Chairman Lloyd Ross and Tobyhanna president Allen Pope making the presentation. In addition, Lions Deputy District Governor Dr. Paul Maxwell, and C. Willis Dunlap, principal of the Pocono Mts. Jointure, praised the Colonel for his outstanding contributions to area community life during more than three years as TAD commander.

At the same time, Clyde Burke, public information officer at the depot, was awarded a certificate for the help he has given the Tobyhanna Lions, and Colonel Dayton W. Eddy, who has been chosen to succeed Colonel Kale, was formally introduced to the public.

A great number of very distinguished guests were on hand, but one who couldn't make it, Congressman Francis E. Walter, delivered perhaps the most generous praise of all. In a telegram, he stated, "Colonel Kale has been Tobyhanna's finest commander and represents everything that is best in the armed services. He always has been a strong supporter for not only Tobyhanna, but the entire Monroe County area. His retirement is a severe loss to the area."

The presentations and introductions took place just before the famed Second U. S. Army Showmobile troupe gave a special performance of its latest musical spectacular, "A World of Wonder." A total of three performances were given, two at the Pocono Mts. Jointure, attracting more than 2,400 spectators, and one at East Stroudsburg High School, sponsored by the Jaycees.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Maybe as a memorial somebody might put a plaque on the seat of one of the chairs in the Penn-Stroud ballroom, because it seems I'm occupying more than my fair share of time there. Especially yesterday when I barely had time to digest the Woman's Club luncheon before I was back for the Community Chest dessert.

But both occasions were rewarding ones with food for thought as well as for the body. However, I was tempted to snitch one of those handsome doves Miss Olive Bond had made to bring back to the office and hang over my desk which seemed to be perpetually surrounded by people waiting with their hands out for more copy. Peace!

Actually, I did have my peaceful moments, since the Carleys share of the program was in music for which I didn't have to take a single note — just enjoy it, and from my vantage point observe the new members and the new Fall hats which make their most spectacular appearance on this particular luncheon.

The funny thing is, that we have come to admire and accept the very "hatty" hats which only last Fall would have had us nudging each other to "look at that HAT!" They really are very handsome. I was admiring Mrs. Berne Cramer's orange hat which picked up the exact shade of the design in her jacket — as well it might since she confessed she'd spent the morning whipping it up from an old skirt. I could use her around my house.

And I'll have to tell on another new member and how she spent the morning: blithely housecleaning because she thought the luncheon was on Tuesday. Although Mildred Nixon looked as if she'd spent hours dressing for the affair, she did it in exactly 10 minutes flat from the time they called her from the hotel, which is something of a record.

And something of a record for conscientiousness was established by the representatives of the Community Chest Agencies and Arlie Williams as the speaker last night. But there are 13 agencies and Arlie really condoned his speech, willy-nilly recognizing that everybody wanted to get home in time for Ben Casey. If I only could have!

Stroud Union PTA Plans Years' Projects, Programs

At the October board meeting of the Stroud Union Junior-Senior High School Parent-Teachers Assn., Mrs. Andrew Keiser, president, introduced the officers and chairmen for the year as well as the program, which will begin with an open house in the form of a Back to School Night on Oct. 15, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Further plans for the open house will be announced later.

Under discussion at the meeting was a ways and means project. The group will sponsor colored photo packets of students to be taken by a commercial photographer. The pictures will be taken at the school this week and will be ready before Christmas.

The PTA sponsors a major project every three or four years to raise funds for PTA projects. With a student body of 1500, smaller projects each year are difficult and so the PTA has set up the large project.

Some of the ways in which the money is used include: Subscriptions to the National PTA magazine for the teachers; a party for the seventh and eighth grade students is held each year; a teenage guide is published each year for students and parents of the seventh grade.

Also the PTA presents two awards at graduation: The Robert Brown Award and the Bishling Award, and gives pins to new members of the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Keiser announced the following committees: Membership, Mrs. James Kitzon; program, Mrs. Robert Miller, chairman; Mrs. Robert Hellmann, Mrs. Alex Blaker, Alfred Munson, Mrs. Harold Pond, Mrs. Parke Kunkle and William Clark, with the program booklet prepared by Mrs. Forrest Hensley.

Hospitality, Mrs. Herbert Ayers, Jr.; legislation, Mrs. Harold Miller; budget, John Powell; public relations, Mrs. Elwood German; safety, Edward Rahn; publication, Mrs. Hillard Koslowski; historian, Andrew Keiser; ways and means, Mrs. Durrell Mader and Mrs. Nelson Lightner; parliamentary, Mrs. Russell Pritchard; parent-teacher relations, Mrs. Sol Rothstein, Mrs. Willard Kintz, Jr.; parent student relations, Herbert Ayers, Jr.; special project chairman, Teenage guide, Mrs. Robert Hellmann; Know Your School, William Clark.

Woman's Club Opens With Luncheon And Program Geared To Quest For Peace

Under fluttering doves of peace, members of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs were filled with food, with inspiration provided by the program which featured a general federation officer and a vocal duo at their opening luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Keynote of the year's club emphasis "In Quest of Peace" was set not only in the decorations, but in talk by Mrs. Earle A. Brown, secretary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs on "Woman's Investment in the Quest of Peace."

Primarily women are concerned with their homes, she said, with preserving their homes and their keeping their families together, she said, and each woman can make a contribution toward the peace necessary to preserve it quoting "A better world begins with me."

Individual members of the Woman's Club also have the strength of the largest organization in the world, embracing 12 million women in 53 programs, with the program translated into seven languages, she pointed out.

Primary project of the General Federation for this year is combating illiteracy with pilot projects in eight foreign countries, as well as in the individual communities here where illiteracy still exists, she said.

In this conjunction, Mr. Henry Survey, chairman of International Affairs, explained the collection to supply kits of pencils, paper, lamps to be administered through CARE, telling of her own experiences in New Delhi and Iran where the nomad tribes have a red tent for teaching, the equivalent of the little red schoolhouses of our own pioneer days. Money collected at the luncheon for the project came to $44.84.

Highlight of the entertainment was the musical program presented by Bonnie and Harry Carley, soprano and tenor, both graduates of the Julliard School of music, which included "There is Music in You"; "Love is a Simple Thing"; "Wouldn't it be Lovely"; "Little Bit of Luck"; "Give Me Your Tired"; "Go to Sleep"; and their own medleys of children's songs and "Around the World."

George Corey, composer, was their accompanist and they sang his latest composition, "San Francisco." Dinner music was provided by Richard Matlock, organist.

Mrs. Edward C. Hess presided at the brief business meeting when Mrs. Edmund Strickland was elected first vice president of the club, filling the unexpired term of Mrs. David Kohn, who has moved to Florida. She was installed by Mrs. Robert Payne, president of the Monroe County Federation.

Mrs. Payne also announced plans for the county federation meeting on Monday, Oct. 15, at Greenview Guest farm when the Progressive Woman's Club will be hosts.

The luncheon opened with an invocation by Mrs. LeRoy K. Koehler, past northeastern district vice president, with the club collected by Mrs. Samuel O. Wells, III, of the state federation's resolution committee.

Mrs. Edmund Strickland announced plans for a card party and luncheon to be held Nov. 7 at 11:30 a.m. at the Stroud Community House.

New members were introduced: Mrs. John E. Calhoun, Mrs. Berne Cramer, Mrs. James P. Lynch, Mrs. William C. Mitchell, Mrs. William Nixon, Mrs. Mary Vance Pierson, Mrs. Clifford A. Poutre, Mrs. Brian Walker Jr., Mrs. Verner M. Reynolds, Mrs. Leonard T. Smiley, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Frank Weiss, Mrs. C. T. Willis.

Also announced as new members were Mrs. Lloyd Colio, Mrs. John M. Crandall, Mrs. Rowland M. Host, Mrs. Ralph E. Reppart, Mrs. John Wolfe.

The new members were co-sponsors, presented by Mrs. H. Clifford Steffens.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1962

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mild influences. Plan and execute a decisive program, devoid of all clutter. Do not be sharp with others, or fuss over their errors. Avoid extremes, maintain ease.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Note Aries and Capricorn. Your outlook similar to self-possessed, a good listener, and let the other fellow know that you value his good will.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A day which you can enjoy to your liking. Take a firm, knowing hand early, and direct with utmost care. Pay special attention to details and figures. Use ALL your fine talents.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — As with other now, you can make of this day what you will, so you will have plenty of competition. All worthwhile aims and capable effort shall be rewarded. Main factors: laudable ambition, forthrightness.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Link up your finest traits, abilities, and other assets which could keep you out of any rut, distraction or disorder. You will also need grit and stick-to-itiveness.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't waste precious moments or you will regret it. Stimulate the best in yourself and others and this day will produce in many ways. Enrich, enhance, improve.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — The position of Venus advises against hasty judgments, brushing lightly over matters which need thoroughness. Science, education, handling animals and machines, travel among highly favored interests.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — While you have the opportunity and tools, which you have now, shape up the brightest, most concrete type of schedule. Several advantages indicated but they will have to be grasped and properly handled.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter's excellent configuration gives you an edge, but naturally if you do nothing about it, then you are lost. Before acting, ask where it will leave you. KNOW your goals.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — A cool head and clear-cut action will put you out front in any department. If of course you have a working knowledge of your subject matter, maintain a steady pace. Arbitrate, don't argue.

January 24 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Better-than-average influences, yet there is good reason to pull in the reins a bit. Tighten controls, use your perspicacity. Clear expression and style needed.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — When to object, and when to assent is important. How you acquiesce to proper authority also an essential. Neptune says "No!" to some schemes.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — YOU HOLDS TODAY are strong beyond your own knowing. You love life and people generally, believe in getting things done to the best of your ability. All this if you are true to Libra's fine motto, which also includes a talent for adapting to unusual and difficult conditions.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your fair attitude fits you for work with complicated groups. Be careful, however, not to be misled by your sympathies. Birthdate: Miguel de Cervantes, Sp. writer; Leonard Wood, noted soldier.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to appear on your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

A Cryptogram Quotation

UROVVIBRIA YOGB WIROY

WXBAB MU WXORG.—XMMH

Yesterday's Cryptogram: MANKIND WAS NEVER SO HAPPILY INSPIRED AS WHEN IT MADE A CATHEDRAL—STEVENS

Hiller's Grand Slam Evens WS

Davenport, Matty Alou, Bowman and finally Hiller all romped home to an impromptu celebration at home plate.

The only runs off Ford up to that time had been scored in the second on Felipe Alou's double and Hiller's home run into the right field seats.

Coates was the losing pitcher, for the runs that meant the difference in that inning had been put on base by him although Bridges had walked Nieman and thrown the home run ball.

Like Rinky Dinks

In the fifth inning the Giants infield performed like the rinky dinks and escaped. The Yanks left two in that inning, three in the sixth and 10 in all.

The Giants were rolling along with that 2-0 lead behind Juan Marichal until Marichal was hit on the right index finger while trying unsuccessfully to squeeze home a run with a bunt in the fifth. The Yanks had only two hits off him in the first four innings. It was a tough blow for the Giants for Marichal struck out four men.

Bob Bolin, a towering relief man with a blazing fast ball, threw nothing but strikes—16 pitches without a ball—in the fifth but two of the strikes were hit for singles by Bill Skowron and Clete Boyer opening the inning.

Forget To Cover

When Ford hit a ball back to first base, Skowron was trapped between third and the plate. In the ensuing rundown, the Giants forgot to cover second and third and both runners moved up.

Davenport then fumbled Kubek's slow roller for an error and the bases were loaded with only one out. Richardson grounded sharply to Hiller at second and the second baseman made the force and completed the double play although his throw to first bounced and Orlando Cepeda had to make a fine pickup.

There was one out in the Yankee sixth when Bolin ran into a wild streak and walked both Mantle and Maris. Elston Howard fled out but Skowron singled to left off his third straight hit and Mantle scored. Boyer's single to left, past the straining shortstop, drove in Maris with the tying run.

Dark then called for Larsen to replace Bolin and escaped without any more damage.

O'Dell Finishes

Taking no chances with his 7-2 lead, Dark brought in Billy O'Dell, who had been scheduled to start Tuesday, to mop up in the last three innings. He did the job, despite a brief scare in the ninth.

"It will be Jack Sanford (24-7) Tuesday and probably Billy Pierce (16-4) in San Francisco Thursday," said Dark. "Willie McCovey will play first Tuesday, Matty Alou will be in right and Hiller will catch."

Houk named Ralph Terry (23-12), loser to Sanford in the 2-0 second game, to pitch Tuesday.

Dark said Marichal was finished for the season because of his injury. That means O'Dell will be the seventh game pitcher if the series goes all the way.

The Giants added their seventh and final run in the ninth on a single by Matty Alou, O'Dell's sacrifice and Hiller's single, combined with a wild throw by Richardson.

'Too Many Mistakes' Cost Eastburg The Game: Kist

"WE MADE too many mistakes . . . we actually gave them the ballgame."

The voice at the other end of the phone belonged to Jack Kist, coach of the East Stroudsburg High School Cavaliers. It was not a happy voice; it was one of dejection.

Lehigh's 14-13 upset over the Cavaliers had just spoiled another of many attempts by Kist for one undefeated season. He has had many campaigns with but one spoiler on the schedule.

Last year it was Pen Argyl.

Two Effort Sheep Dogs Win Honors

TWO SHETLAND sheep dogs, owned by Mrs. Constance Hubbard's Astolat Kennels in Effort, Saturday won top honors at the Devon Kennel Club dog show.

The male puppy, Astolat Gold Twist took first in the puppy class and his kennel mate, Lorie de Astolat took first in the open female class and went on to take first in the winners division, requiring two more points toward her championship.

E-burg Ladies Bowl Tonight

THREE matches will be played at Harmon's in the East Stroudsburg Ladies League starting at 6:45 p.m. tonight.

Town Tavern vs. Eagles on alleys 1 and 2; Welch's Buick vs. Square Bar on alleys 3 and 4; and Herman's Shoe vs. Par-dee's Beach on alleys 5 and 6.

Almost overlooked in the game-ending excitement was an excellent fielding play by Bowman, who replaced Pagan at shortstop, on a hard shot by pinch hitter Hector Lopez opening the ninth. Willie Mays made a fine running catch on Maris in the second and Pagan made a brilliant stop and recovery to nail Howard in the same inning.

In the fifth inning Ford went to 3-0 on three straight hitters but struck out two of them. Apparently that inning convinced Houk that Ford was tiring for he pinch hit for him in the sixth.

Manager Al Dark said he hadn't intended to use Marichal as a starter again in the Series.

The ball was inside and low, said the Giant hurler. "When I swung, the ball hit my finger first. It was a bad pitch, but I couldn't let it go by because Tony Kubek, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh singled, bringing in a run with two down in the ninth. Then up came Mickey Mantle, who became the final out."

Tough Luck Again

"I threw him a slider that he hit to short," O'Dell explained.

Tough luck again befell Juan Marichal who was hit on the right index finger while trying to bunt in the fifth. The painful injury put him out of the Series.

Last Sept. 5 he suffered a sprained foot after winning 18 games and hasn't won one since.

PMBL Slates Four Matches

POCONO Major Bowling League has scheduled four matches for tonight starting at 6:45 p.m. on Colonial Lane.

Fabel's Dairy vs. Fabel's Gulf on alleys 9 and 10; Stroudsburg Furnace vs. Beaver House on alleys 11 and 12; Star Furniture vs. Happy Hour Tavern on alleys 13 and 14, and Pocono Pump Co. vs. Lawson's Automotive on alleys 15 and 16.

Terry became the father of a boy for the second time last Saturday, only a few hours after he pitched and lost the second Series game, 2-0, to Jack Sanford.

The 26-year-old native of Laredo, Kan., was 23-12 in the regular season, but he has yet to win a Series game. His defeat last Friday was his fourth in three post-season classis.

The costly mistakes opened the gates for the winning Indian TD and gave them the momentum which carried the visiting club to ultimate victory.

It's tough enough when a team loses any time—but in the manner in which the Cavaliers lost Saturday's contest with a total final-period collapse was enough to give any coach too many gray hairs.

Two Effort Sheep Dogs Win Honors

TWO SHETLAND sheep dogs, owned by Mrs. Constance Hubbard's Astolat Kennels in Effort, Saturday won top honors at the Devon Kennel Club dog show.

Hiller And Haller-lujah— And Bridges Tumbles Down

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk, manager of the Yankees, said it was strictly his decision—and not Whitey Ford's—to yank his ace pitcher for a pinch hitter Monday in the fourth World Series game, won by the San Francisco Giants 7-3.

"Whitey didn't ask to be taken out," Houk added in the New York dressing room after the game. "He told me he didn't have very good stuff and that was enough for me."

"I saw a chance to break the game open and took Ford out for Yogi Berra as a pinch hitter. I can't second guess myself on it. I would do the same thing under similar circumstances again."

Ford Relieved

The Yankees and Giants were tied 2-2 when Berra went in to pinch hit for Ford in the seventh.

Ford wasn't one of those ready to question the strategy of his manager.

"Wasn't Tired" "I wasn't tired," he said afterward. "But if I'd been the manager, I'd have done the same thing. I'd have used a pinch hitter."

One wag described the fourth game of the Series, which knotted the baseball classic at two games each, in this succinct fashion: "Haller, Hiller, hallelujah, and the Bridges came tumbling down."

Catcher Tom Haller poled a two-run homer in the second inning and Hiller uncorked his grand slammer in the seventh for four more. A hit by Hiller and an error by Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson contributed the final Giant run in the ninth.

No Apologies Ford had no apologies for the pitch he gave Haller which went some 350 feet into the lower right field stands.

"It was a fast slider down the middle," he said. "The count was three and two and my intention was to get it over the plate. I did."

Bridges was more remorseful over the ball he fed to Hiller, who had only a total of three home runs for the entire season.

"I just didn't get it where I wanted," he said, almost in tears. "I threw him a high fast ball but I intended for it to be tight. 'In-steady the ball slipped away from me and got too far over the plate. He creamed it."

"Personally, I was surprised. I didn't know he had that much power."

during the regular season and he can't remember hitting a grand slammer even in the minors.

Climaxes Inning

His clout into the right field seats off reliever Marshall Bridges sent the Giants into a 6-2 lead and put a climax to an inning of Manager Alvin Dark's strategy.

Hiller shared the game's honors with Tom Haller and veteran southpaw Billy O'Dell who went in for three fine relief innings instead of starting Tuesday's game.

Haller crashed a homer off Whitey Ford in the second inning and gave the Giants a 2-0 lead. Both Hiller and Haller, the only left-handed batters in the starting array, hit their homers of left-handed pitchers in defiance of baseball percentages.

Haller thought both homers probably would have gone out of Candlestick Park in San Francisco—Hiller's for sure.

Not Disappointed

O'Dell declared he wasn't a bit disappointed to go into the game in the seventh inning relieving Don Larsen—who was the winner over the Yankees on the anniversary Oct. 8 date of the 1956 perfect game he pitched for New York over Brooklyn in the World Series.

"This ball game meant more to us than tomorrow's," O'Dell declared. "We'd really have been down if we had lost and been behind 3-1 in games."

O'Dell retired the first eight men to face him without a ball going out of the infield. But Tony Kubek, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh singled, bringing in a run with two down in the ninth. Then up came Mickey Mantle, who became the final out.

Winners were as follows: Warm up jumping: Miss Edwards, first; Nancy Jenkins, Allentown, second; Edwards, third; Sharon Manners, Ringoes, N. J., fourth.

Junior Jumping: Miss Edwards, first; Miss Jenkins, second; Miss Manners, third, and Jane Schoenberger, Stroudsburg, fourth.

Knock down and out: Sandy Vaughn, Stroudsburg, first; Miss Manners, second; Miss Manners, second; Betty May Frank, Ringoes, N. J., third, and Miss Edwards fourth.

Hunter Hack: Miss Edwards first; Miss Manners, second; Davy Collins, Daulton, third and Kathy Slausenberg, Callicoon, N. J., fourth.

Scurry Jumping: Miss Manners first and second place; Miss Edwards, third, and Dr. Bernard Lewis, Scranton, fourth.

Open Jumping: Edwards, first; Jimmy White, Daulton, second; Sandy Vaughn, third and Dr. Lewis, fourth.

Hunt and pick: Jimmy White, first; Miss Edwards, second and Miss Manners third and fourth.

Daughter, Father Top Winners

A FATHER and daughter from Great Meadows, N. J., competing against each other, both ended up with most of the top ribbons in the jumping events Sunday during the Hill-Meadow Stables "Autumn in the Pocomos" horse show.

Chrissy Edwards, riding "Lower the Boom" received first place ribbons in warm up jumping over 16 entries; first in junior jumping with 17 entries; first from a field of 10 riders in hunter class. She also drew a fourth place ribbon in the knock down and out event against 10 other riders; a third in scurry jumping over a field of 13 entries, and a second place in hunt and pick class where 11 were competing for top place.

Her father, Bob Edwards, placed first in the open jumping event with a field of 14 riders and took third place ribbons in warm up jumping.

More than 500 spectators split their attentions in the two ring show among the english pleasure and jumping and the western working and pleasure classes.

Winners were as follows: Warm up jumping: Miss Edwards, first; Nancy Jenkins, Allentown, second; Edwards, third; Sharon Manners, Ringoes, N. J., fourth.

to question the strategy of his manager.

"Wasn't Tired" "I wasn't tired," he said afterward. "But if I'd been the manager, I'd have done the same thing. I'd have used a pinch hitter."

One wag described the fourth game of the Series, which knotted the baseball classic at two games each, in this succinct fashion: "Haller, Hiller, hallelujah, and the Bridges came tumbling down."

Catcher Tom Haller poled a two-run homer in the second inning and Hiller uncorked his grand slammer in the seventh for four more. A hit by Hiller and an error by Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson contributed the final Giant run in the ninth.

No Apologies Ford had no apologies for the pitch he gave Haller which went some 350 feet into the lower right field stands.

"It was a fast slider down the middle," he said. "The count was three and two and my intention was to get it over the plate. I did."

Bridges was more remorseful over the ball he fed to Hiller, who had only a total of three home runs for the entire season.

"I just didn't get it where I wanted," he said, almost in tears. "I threw him a high fast ball but I intended for it to be tight. 'In-steady the ball slipped away from me and got too far over the plate. He creamed it."

"Personally, I was surprised. I didn't know he had that much power."

during the regular season and he can't remember hitting a grand slammer even in the minors.

Climaxes Inning

His clout into the right field seats off reliever Marshall Bridges sent the Giants into a 6-2 lead and put a climax to an inning of Manager Alvin Dark's strategy.

Hiller shared the game's honors with Tom Haller and veteran southpaw Billy O'Dell who went in for three fine relief innings instead of starting Tuesday's game.

Haller crashed a homer off Whitey Ford in the second inning and gave the Giants a 2-0 lead. Both Hiller and Haller, the only left-handed batters in the starting array, hit their homers of left-handed pitchers in defiance of baseball percentages.

Haller thought both homers probably would have gone out of Candlestick Park in San Francisco—Hiller's for sure.

Not Disappointed

O'Dell declared he wasn't a bit disappointed to go into the game in the seventh inning relieving Don Larsen—who was the winner over the Yankees on the anniversary Oct. 8 date of the 1956 perfect game he pitched for New York over Brooklyn in the World Series.

"This ball game meant more to us than tomorrow's," O'Dell declared. "We'd really have been down if we had lost and been behind 3-1 in games."

O'Dell retired the first eight men to face him without a ball going out of the infield. But Tony Kubek, Bobby Richardson and Tom Tresh singled, bringing in a run with two down in the ninth. Then up came Mickey Mantle, who became the final out.

Winners were as follows: Warm up jumping: Miss Edwards, first; Nancy Jenkins, Allentown, second; Edwards, third; Sharon Manners, Ringoes, N. J., fourth.

Junior Jumping: Miss Edwards, first; Miss Jenkins, second; Miss Manners, third, and Jane Schoenberger, Stroudsburg, fourth.

S-U Defeat Gives Gridders 'Lift'

Rumors Are Flying

NEW YORK (AP)—Rumors of baseball changes swirled around the World Series as usual Monday. One report, which was denied, said Bill Veeck has obtained an option to purchase the Washington Senators.

Another, which drew no official reaction, said Walter Alston would be retained as manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers despite his team's flop at the end of the season and in the playoff for the National League pennant with the San Francisco Giants.

Veeck reportedly is heading a syndicate that includes Hank Greenberg, famed former Detroit Tiger slugger; Nate Dolin, currently vice-president of the Cleveland Indians; and Rudie Schaefer, business manager of the Chicago White Sox. Veeck has been out of baseball since he sold his 51 per cent interest in the Chicago White Sox midway through the 1961 season.

Cites Illness
He gave illness as the reason but since then his health has mended.

E. R. (Pete) Quesada, president of the Senators, said in Washington that "the club is not for sale." Veeck, at his home in Easton, Md., declared, "I have no option and haven't asked for any option." Other sources said, however, that there were some basis for fact for the Veeck-to-Washington rumors.

Penn State First Choice For Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Penn State's unbeaten football team is the unanimous choice for first place in the Lambert Trophy voting for the second straight week.

The Nittany Lions, winners of the trophy last year as the East's best collegiate football team, stayed on top Monday with an 18-7 victory over Rice last Saturday night giving them 10 points. Pittsburgh, a 26-24 winner over California, is second with 8 points.

Last summer Veeck declared Washington was "an untapped gold mine for baseball."

As for Alston, speculation has been strong that he would be dropped as manager, possibly being made an assistant to Buzzie Bavasi, the Dodgers vice-president and general manager.

Leo Durocher, former manager of the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers, has been mentioned as a possible successor as has Charlie Dressen, a former manager of the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

Retain Alston
One reliable source, however, indicated Alston would be retained as manager, but Bavasi declined direct comment on this.

President Walter F. O'Malley of the Dodgers reportedly will call a press conference in Los Angeles soon after the World Series to announce his decision concerning a manager for 1963.

In nine years as manager, Alston led the Dodgers to two pennants in Brooklyn and one in Los Angeles, and guided them to 1955 and 1959 World Series victories.

Price Challenges Five Finishers

PARIS (AP)—Jack Price, smarting over the drubbing his little colt Carry Back took in the rich Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe Sunday, challenged Monday the first five finishers in that race to a $125,000 winner-take-all rematch.

"We've thrown down the gauntlet and now let's see if they'll pick it up," said the retired Cleveland, Ohio, businessman who trains Carry Back for his wife, Katherine, the horse's owner.

Price said he sent the challenge to the owners of the first five horses in the 1½ mile race in which Carry Back finished tenth.

"I'm sure we could beat all of them, and I'd like the chance to show French racing fans what my horse can really do."

Carry Back, 1961 Kentucky Derby winner and 3-year-old horse of the year, did not get a call in the race which was won by French-bred Solihoff.

Price said he planned to fly Carry Back to the United States Thursday night but will change plans and remain in France if his challenge is accepted. This would mean, he said, that Carry Back would miss the $100,000 an O'War Handicap at Belmont Park Oct. 27.

Most French track officials considered it imprudent for Price to think he could win the Arc de Triomphe with Carry Back.

"Pick The Best"
One turf expert put it this way: "Pick the best horse in the world, put the greatest jockey on him and throw him suddenly into the 1½ mile up-and-downhill Longchamp course with its terrible last turn with a cavalry charge of 24 horses running for the finish."

Another old-time jockey club member said "If Carry Back had won the Arc de Triomphe it would have been a miracle. And there are no miracles in racing and few still at Longchamp."

'What Does It Take For 'Top Billing In PSCAC?'

COACH JACK Gregory today must be wondering just what one must do to get top billing in the Eastern section of the Pennsylvania State Colleges Football Conference. His East Stroudsburg State College team is rated second, according to standings released yesterday from Johnstown headquarters.

In first place in the East is Bloomsburg which boasts nothing better than an over-all record of 1-1-1, and a conference record of 1-0.

Gregory's Warriors are second with an over-all record of 3-0, and 2-0 in conference play—including a 7-6 win over West Chester.

Rams Ranked First
The Golden Rams of West Chester, as any football follower in these parts is certainly well aware, were pre-season favorites to successfully defend its conference title. East Stroudsburg was ranked second.

In addition to upsetting the Rams two weeks ago, the Warriors downed a strong Montclair State College eleven in the opener, 29-20, while romping over hapless Kutztown Saturday before a Homecoming Day throng, 52-7.

Yet Bloomsburg has a rating of 250 today, compared to the 225 for Gregory's combine.

Rating Explained
The reason for Bloomsburg moving ahead of ESSC in the standings is explained this way by the announcement from PSCAC headquarters:

"Although Bloomsburg last weekend was tied in non-league action, the Huskies moved ahead of East Stroudsburg in the Eastern standings by virtue of the computations of the Saylor-system of ratings, which figures heavily on the calibre of the opposition as well as the won-lost record.

"However, this supposedly current top-sided rating tends to right itself as the season progresses."

What Goes?

At any rate, this explanation should serve as answer to the expected queries on college hill of, "Hey, what goes on here?"

Slippery Rock, meanwhile, continues on top in the Western section. The defending section champion has a 2-0 conference record, and 4-0 over-all, with 225 points. California and Clark are tied for second place with 1-0 slates and 200 points each.

PSCAC Notes: Opposition coaches, sports writers and practically everyone praised Coach Gregory and his Warriors for their fine victory over West Chester. Stroudsburg students gave their grid stars a rousing welcome home in the wee hours of the morning... Doug Smith, Erie sports writer, has high praise for Slippery Rock's "Twin" quarterbacks... he writes that Slippery Rock "can interchange quarterbacks without losing a bit of talent."...

West Chester and California were given NAIA considerations in weekly football poll... In-torest in Edinboro's athletic program has progressed to the point that an Erie radio station now broadcasts Red Raiders' grid games.

RICHIE Ashburn, the New York Mets' outfielder, lists his hobby as reading.

Not Changed One Bit

By William A. Doyle

Q. I am a widow and have some income from dividends on stocks and interest on a bank savings account. I do not have a Social Security number and have never made out an income tax return. I am told that, because of the new Kennedy tax law, I will have to pay income taxes on the dividends and interest.

How much will I have to pay. When will I have to pay it?

A. Let's clear up one thing right off the bat. The tax obligations of most people (and that seems to include you) have not been changed one bit by the so-called "Kennedy tax bill." Actually, the new Federal tax law resembles the one President Kennedy wanted about as much as a horse resembles a goat.

Anyone who has "taxable income" of $600 or more a year has been required to file a Federal income tax return. The new law doesn't change that.

But it does tighten the "reporting requirements" — specifically the information provided to the Federal government.

Each bank or other financial institution and each corporation will now be required to report to the Internal Revenue Service the exact amount of interest and dividends of $10 or more paid to each person each year.

Under the new setup each taxpayer will have a number. For most people that number will be their Social Security number.

Those people, such as you, who do not have Social Security numbers will have numbers assigned to them. You will be required to report your number to the bank where you are getting interest on your savings account and to the corporations in which you own stock.

All this information will be fed into an electronic data processing system. The Internal Revenue Service will have information on each and all of us.

However, if your total taxable income is less than $600 a year, you won't be required to file a Federal income tax return. If your total taxable income is more than that amount, you are required to file a tax return for that year no later than April 15 of the following year.

But you may still find that you don't have to pay any taxes — after calculating your personal exemption, deductions, exclusion and credit on your dividends, etc.

After the end of the year, get an income tax form. Some relatively simple figuring will tell you how much (if any) income tax you will be required to pay. If you have any trouble, go to the nearest office of the Internal Revenue Service and get some help.

There's a great deal of misunderstanding about the new "taxpayer numbering system." In a nutshell, it will help the revenue catch tax cheats. Honest taxpayers should stand up and cheer about that.

The new tax bill does not contain the proposal by the Kennedy Administration, that would have imposed a flat 20 percent withholding of taxes on all dividends and interest.

If that proposal by the outcasts of the New Frontier had stayed in the law, it would have resulted in fantastic hardships on those people (perhaps, yourself) who are not required to pay income taxes on their dividends and interest.

Fortunately, the U. S. Senate killed that wild notion.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

FAMILY AFFAIR—The promotion of James V. McMahon from 2nd Lt. to 1st Lt. recently at Tobyhanna Army Depot was a family affair. Lt. McMahon holds his six-week old son, James V. Jews Observe Yom Kippur

NEW YORK (AP) — Yom Kippur, the holiest day of religious observance for Jewish people, began at sundown Sunday night.

This "day of atonement" culminates a 10-day period of repentance which began with Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year.

In synagogues throughout the world, 24-hour worship services are held to commemorate Yom Kippur. Jews usually add to the solemnity of the holy day by fasting.

Prayers and sermons on Yom Kippur call upon man to overcome personal error and dereliction, and remold the coming year through self-improvement and better understanding of family and neighbor. The prayers include supplications for elimination of poverty, hunger, prejudice and attainment of world peace.

The end of the holy day comes with the sounding of the shofar — a ram's horn — at sundown Monday night.

Eisenhower Attends Wedding

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower stood by proudly as his niece, Ruth Eakin Eisenhower, and Dr. Thomas Wilkes Snider, of Little Rock, Ark., were married Saturday.

The bride is the only daughter of Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins university. She has been assistant to the public relations director at the Johns Hopkins medical institutions since her graduation from Swarthmore college in 1960.

The bridegroom teaches in the radiology department at the Johns Hopkins school of medicine.

The marriage service was performed by the very Rev. Vincent F. Beatty, president of Loyola college, in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Mary our Queen.

Among the ushers were Kenneth A. Jones, of Pittsburgh, and C. William Vandergrift, of State College, Pa.
